

Jason Hall Biography

With over 15 years of writing and training experience to clients including SAP, Webtech Wireless, WorkSafeBC and Health Canada, Jason Hall brings excellence to all his endeavours.

He thrives on projects with a full documentation development cycle: interviewing subject matter experts, creating documentation needs analyses, and utilizing his strong software skills. This allow him to develop templates, style sheets, and even provide a polished finish to documents with effective and well-designed graphic components.

Jason is a frequent contributor to the Vancouver Observer, an online magazine with over 50,000 readers a month. Combining his technical writing skills and his years as a musician, he researches interesting stories about musicians and music events throughout the city and beyond.

As an instructor at BCIT, Jason mentors emerging writers to create clear and concise documentation suitable for its intended audience.

- COMM 1007 - Technical Writing Style
- COMM 1008 - Technical Editing and Grammar
- COMM 1110 - Writing for the Web

